We are continually updating the list of outgoing mail servers below based on user requests.

The table includes outgoing mail servers from around the globe. If you can't find your SMTP server in the list below, leave a comment and our team will help you find it. Meanwhile, you should consider skipping the need for an outgoing server altogether, especially if you're having troubles sending emails.

Problems Sending Emails?

Are you always on the go between home and work, traveling to different cities, or even different countries? Are you trying unsuccessfully to send emails from your laptop, desktop computer, iPhone or PDA?

Simply use smtp2go as your outgoing mail server and never worry about problems sending emails ever again. Setup takes only 2 minutes. Send from anywhere in the world — from home, the office, Los Angeles, or even Guatemala! Click here to learn more about SMTP2go.

What is My Outgoing Mail Server?

Your outgoing mail server is used to send emails from your computer. Depending on where your email account is hosted, you may or may not be able to use your email provider's outgoing mail server. Email addresses based on public email services such as Hotmail, Google, Yahoo, etc. will use their own outgoing mail servers. If your email is hosted on your own website, you may want to use your hosting provider's mail server. For example, websites hosted on example.com may use mail.example.com as both their incoming and outgoing mail servers.

My Outgoing Mail Server Doesn't Work!

Some ISP's (Internet Service Providers) will not allow you to make use of your own outgoing mail server. In this situation, you'll need to use your ISP's outgoing mail server. Find the name of your ISP and use the chart below to find your outgoing mail server.

If you are intent on using your own site's mail server, you may want to contact your ISP. You can also try outgoing mail (SMTP) port number to 26 (default is 25), as some ISP's will block port 25 because it is often used for spamming.

Getting Your SMTP Server to Work

The top things people miss when trying to setup their outgoing server are as follows:

- Misspelling the outgoing server name (for example, typing smtp.gail.com instead of smtp.gmail.com).
- Some servers require outgoing authentication. There should be a box you can check to enable this (it will have your email client use your email address and password to authenticate any emails that you send).
- Some setups require an SSL connection. If this is the case, your outgoing port will most likely change (from 25 or 26 to 465).
- In most cases, you will not need SPA (Secure Password Authentication).

How to Setup My Email With My Mail Client?

We have two tutorials up, one for Outlook and one for Outlook Express, for those of you looking for detailed instructions on setting up your email:

- Email Setup Tutorial for Outlook
- Email Setup Tutorial for Outlook Express

We've also got tutorials on setting up your spam filter if your host is utilizing Spam Assassin as its spam filter:

But now, without further ado, here's the list of mail servers.

How do you find the SMTP server port for Tmobile. I am trying to send emails via my 10digitphonenumber@tmomail.net, does this require authentication? What would the user/pw combination be? I assume the server is myemail.t-mobile.com?
Thanks

Im sorry.. but what is the use of all these smtp's without the Port number and Auth info?

Where can I get a list including port numbers?

Please add your comment, I will get notification.

Hi,

Could not find my outgoing server on your list and am having hellish problems sending Emails while travelling (which seems to be half my time lately!) Could you please find and add it to your list. It should be mail.eastlink.ca

Many thanks,
Chris

I can receive but not send emails using DigiMobil data sim in Tenerife, Spain.

Task 'info@myadvicegateway.org – Sending' reported error (0x80042109) : 'Outlook cannot connect to your outgoing (SMTP) e-mail server. If you continue to receive this message, contact your server administrator or Internet service provider (ISP).'

Please could you tell me what should the outgoing SMTP mail server and port be set to?

Hi Kimberly, We have our own domain, and our internet hosts here in NZ (2Degrees) don't provide a mail server. So our mail doesn't send and receive properly. Do you know of any way for us to get an outgoing and incoming mail server set up?
Thank you

Have you tried the following:

pop.cox.net Incoming POP Port: 995

smtp.cox.net Outgoing SMTP Port: 587 with TLS enabled 465 with SSL enabled and check the authentication box, if available
